LFC CHAMP BELLA INK RETURNS TO DEFEND HER TITLE AFTER ACCIDENT

LFC's reigning queen, Bella Ink, will make her second title defense this Valentine's Day at LFC46: Tunnel of Love in Las Vegas. The Nashville boxer was involved in a serious car accident last year that kept her from fighting at LFC45 but she rehabbed her injuries and has been cleared to return months earlier than expected. To attend this private event and see Ink in action you must either be a shareholder (BOTY) or a site member (www.LFCfights.com) in order to claim two complimentary tickets.

LFC EUROPE LAUNCHES AT DRAGON RAGE IN SARDINIA, ITALY

Some of LFC's biggest events have taken place in Europe including LFC24 at a sold out Hant Arena in Bratislava, Slovakia and LFC43 this past summer in London, England which sparked an incredible 500% increase in social media following. Now LFC is going to have a permanent footprint in Europe as they've partnered with Dragon Rage in Sardinia, Italy which will operate a dedicated LFC training program (it will also be the site of LFC's Halloween show this year). Dragon Rage is owned by undefeated LFC fighter Angelica Ko who has already begun casting fighters from Italy such as Pamela Strong (pictured).

REVERSE SPLIT APPROVED BY REGULATORS

LFC management learned Friday that their reverse split has been approved by Finra. By increasing the share price and reducing the number of outstanding shares, a reverse split is expected to appeal to institutional investors, help meet exchange listing requirements and reduce excessive volatility often associated with very low-priced stocks. It will allow management to focus on executing their long-term growth strategy in a more stable and credible market environment, better supporting shareholder value over time.
